ANATOLE KRASNYANSKY "TAMBOURINE TWOSOME" (UNIQUE)

An absolutely gorgeous piece by the late Anatole Krasnyanski, this matted and framed original painting is a true statement piece, measuring an impressive 56x51 inches.

Anatole Krasnyanski "Tambourine Twosome" 2007 (Original Painting on Canvas)

Framed: 56x51

Acrylic and watercolor painting on handmade Japanese rice paper, signed in ink lower left. A unique work.

Appraised Value: $25,500 (Pre-death)

Anatole Krasnyansky was a Ukrainian American artist, best known for his watercolors and cityscapes. His work conflates themes of music, theater, architecture, and culture through colorful figurations set in non-Euclidean space. Krasnyansky earned his master's in architecture and fine art before emigrating from the Soviet Union in 1975 to pursue his art career in Los Angeles. His structural aesthetic was shaped by his previous work as an architect, as well as having served as a scenic artist in the theater industry. Notably, Krasnyansky developed a unique process of textural watercolor painting, where his paper works reference Eastern culture and heritage through color relationships and architectural features. Krasnyansky exhibited internationally during his lifetime, including at institutions such as Stanford University in Palo Alto and the University of Los Angeles.

David Le Batard (1972-2023)

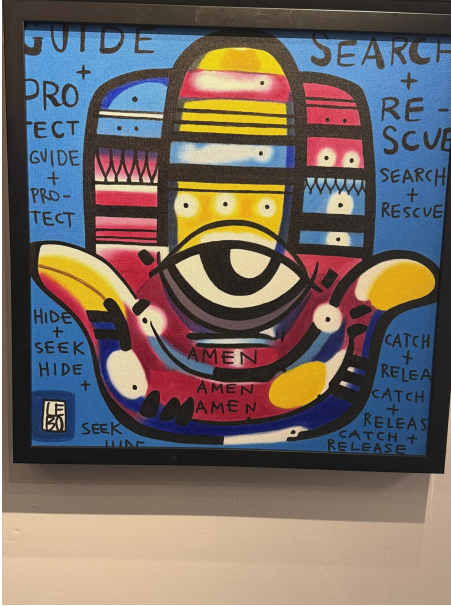

David Le Batard, better known in the art world as Lebo, is recognized for working in a wide spectrum of creative mediums including murals, paintings and sculptures. Lebo is the innovator of Postmodern Cartoon Expressionism – a combination of cartoon imagery, richly saturated balances of color and unique linear composition brought together in a narrative style to inspire emotion and create layers of meaning.

Lebo's visual storytelling method pulls from classic American cartooning and fine art, every form of indigenous art and Egyptian hieroglyphics to create a unique visual language – one that strives to have a wide point of entry for the viewer with endless layers of meaning within. It is a world where mythology, history, metaphysics and illustration all join seamlessly. Born to Cuban immigrant parents and raised in South Florida, Lebo has become one of the most well-respected muralists in Miami. With a showroom in Wynwood and a studio in Miami Beach, Lebo's art can be found all over the world, in private collections and in corporate partnerships including Norwegian Cruise Lines, Lulu Lemon, Harley Davidson, Audi, Google, Microsoft, Redbull, Ketel One, Bacardi, and Ferrari.

DAVID LEBATARD (LEBO) "THIS HOLY MOMENT"

Appraised at $30,400

Sale price: $19,500

Comes with COA and Appraisal

David Adam Le Batard (19 November 1972 – 1 August 2023), also known by the nickname LEBO

Inspired by ancient modes of storytelling, comic strip compositions, and the grit of 1970s street art, David (Lebo) Le Batard surrenders his artwork to the sum of history.

The Cuban-American artist is internationally recognized for his unique style—Postmodern Cartoon Expressionism—which harmonizes calligraphy, cartoons, indigenous art, mythology, and modern melody.

Lebo's rise to success began in 1996 during his first public exhibit at Johnson & Wales University. Since then, he has exhibited at a wide variety of events and venues. Heavily inspired by music and the music scene, Lebo has participated in many live-art performances, painting on stage and bringing the music to life. He has painted alongside many headlining musical talents, including The Beastie Boys.

Lebo refers to his artistic style as "Postmodern Cartoon Expressionism," combining abstract imagery, cartoon drawing, bold hues, and calligraphy together in a narrative style to convey emotion and story.

Lebo often speaks toward his allegiance to postmodern philosophy, which asserts that history is continuous. The Miami resident pieces together a myriad of historic and cross-cultural narratives in each of his works, establishing the notion that culture is linked through time, not separated by it.

His artistic style is characterized by gestural lines, condensed fields of color, and an inexplicable graphic edge. By playfully interpreting sentiments of inner peace, mindfulness, and spiritual enlightenment, Lebo's artwork acts as a vehicle for something otherworldly.

In 2003, Lebo created the official artwork for the Latin Grammy Awards. He has created many private and publicly sponsored mural installations including works in Wynwood, Florida, Calle Ocho, The American Airlines Arena—home to the Miami Heat, Hart Plaza in Detroit, Orleans Parish Juvenile Courthouse and the Hotel des Artes, San Francisco.

Lebo's art can be found in the permanent collections of companies such as Bacardi USA, Ferrari, National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, San Francisco Sentry, Sony Music Entertainment, Universal Music Group, Red Bull USA, William Morris Agency, Art Publishing Ltd and Gibson Guitar Corp. He has additionally worked with brands like Adidas, ESPN, Google, Harley Davidson, Lululemon, Macy's Inc., Microsoft and Simon & Schuster.

KEN FLANAGAN "RED VELVET"

30x24 Acrylic painting on canvas. Hand Signed in pigment by the artist. A unique work

Appraised: $12,000

An incredible, self-taught painter, Ken Flanagan was a Top 10 Finalist for Park West's annual Made in Vegas artist competition two years in a row and has won wide acclaim for his wryly clever and technically amazing compositions.

Originally born in New York, Flanagan is a life-long artist who currently resides in Las Vegas. His unique style has developed over the past several years and continues to evolve.

His signature "Iconography" series started as a set of black and white studies of famous sports figures. As the series progressed, Flanagan realized that we often don't see famous celebrities as normal, everyday people. He wanted to humanize them and, by adding color to the portraits, he achieved this aesthetic. This eventually evolved into incorporating specific colors and hues to highlight various traits, whether humorously or wryly.

Flanagan's other ongoing series include his farcical "Syndicate" paintings, which depict a band of gangland characters using animal forms for the personas, and his "Refresh" series, comprised of large-scale paintings that depict famous works of art and how, over time, even these iconic works may need a bit of cleaning and touch-up.

In addition to his recurring motifs, Flanagan also creates very personal portraits of his late father and his military service, his sons, and his sister-in-law who passed away from COVID-19. As Flanagan's work continues to develop, these series will continue to grow with more and more iterations.

In 2021, Flanagan was named a Top 10 Finalist of Park West Gallery's inaugural Made in Vegas artist search competition, being selected out of hundreds of applicants. The very next year, Flanagan repeated the honor by being named a finalist for the 2022 Made in Vegas contest as well.

Peter Max (1937 -) is a German-born American Pop artist known for his distinctive psychedelic style that resonated with the countercultural movements of the 1960s and 70s. Max's art, filled with bright, acidic colors and kaleidoscopic compositions, reflected his interest in mysticism and space exploration and is often associated with the visual language of American pop culture. His subjects range from contemporary figures to scenes of the cosmos to American symbols, and his notable commissions have included official artwork for the Super Bowl and the World Cup. Despite controversies late in his career, Max's legacy endures, a technicolor testament to the power of art in shaping, and reflecting, the spirit of its time.

TREVOR "STICKMAN" STICKEL "PLANET BOOM"

Description

2025 16x16

Appraised: $5000

Acrylic painting on canvas. Hand signed in pigment by the artist. A unique work.

Trevor "Stickman" Stickel specializes in music inspired pop-realism paintings that capture legendary moments, powerful ideas, and raw emotion. His work is described as gritty-yet fresh, complex-yet simple. Graduating from a Jekyll and Hyde influence early in his career, in which he divided his time between family portraits and airbrush design work on helmets and Harleys, Stickman had the epiphany to combine both styles while reading "According to the Rolling Stones". Two weeks later he finished his first canvas portrait of Mick Jagger, aptly titled "Please allow me to introduce myself", which forever changed the direction of his career in the art world.

THE CONCEPT

The concept of Stickman's work is to combine realism, pop-art, impressionism and other disciplines of art to express the feelings and emotions of the subject or musical inspiration. This approach allows him to explore the artistic side of these pieces, while paying additional homage to some of his favorite visual artists.

THE SYMBOL

In addition to the art itself, Stickman also adds (and quite often hides) his trademarked Stickman symbol (stick figure with devil horns). The Stickman symbol is derived from Stickman's last name (Stickel) and a common phrase he hears from viewers, "I can't even draw a stick man". The horns represent rock and roll (his primary inspiration), which is generally regarded as the devil's music, and references the duality of man (good vs evil).

THE TITLE

The title of each piece is often overlooked but may very well be the most important piece of the puzzle. Stickman looks for a lyric that he believes personifies the subject or his feeling toward that subject, and then strives to create an image and feeling that takes the viewer to that emotional state of mind. The titles are always a lyric from the song of inspiration, but rarely the title of a song. If the viewer is a fan of the song, they should almost hear the lyric or feel the emotion of the lyric when looking at the piece. Knowing the title completes the emotional connection to the painting.
